HARRIS

LIPMAN

...doing IT
as often as possible!

It, is the most underestimated aphrodisiac in business today. It, is the moment you close that all-important first deal and the passion for business comes alive.

It can become an intoxicating almost addictive experience and the more deals you complete the greater the thrill. But as with anything too potent, it should never be taken for granted.

Whether a successful entrepreneur controlling many businesses, or an owner manager immersed in one business, there will be occasions to seek professional business advice.

Be it your first or one hundredth deal, good advice remains a strategically important weapon in your armoury and a valuable asset in the decision making process.

The Business Advisory Team at Harris Lipman work closely with all clients to avoid the many pitfalls and traps that plague the business world and our unique approach, is founded on the principle that regardless of how many deals achieved “when in business, you never stop learning!”
